

The Madeira Historical Society was founded more than forty-seven years ago to preserve the history of Madeira. We have accumulated many historical documents, artifacts and historical photographs. The collection is used to help educate Madeira citizens of all ages about our history.

The Miller House is a Sears & Roebuck home built in 1922. Elizabeth Miller, who had resided in her home since 1948 donated the home and surrounding grounds to our organization in the year 2000. The Miller House is used to display our historical treasures.

The Madeira Historical Society is in need of new members to help with the operation of the historical society. In addition, help is also needed to maintain the Miller House and grounds, local artifacts and treasures. Please consider becoming a member of the Madeira Historical Society.
